

Flinn Staines, in character as Joe

Ciara O'Byrne, who runs Act 3 Stage School

Seamus Neeson, Tomas Hoyne and Shane Murphy. Pictures: Geraldine Woods

Laura Byrne, Amy Morrison and Niamh Holland

Racing to tackle a problem

ONCE again, Balally Players staged a terrific play, with their recent production of The Moon Cut Like a Sickle at the Mill Theatre, Dundrum. Starring young members of the acting troupe, the energetic play, written by Ken Armstrong, told the tale of an all-too-familiar sight on Irish roads – speeding “boy racers”, and the consequences of their reckless actions on our roads and society. As expected, the cast members staged the play with ease.

Director, Oran O'Rua

Tension between Ratchett (Matt Powell) and Terry (Seamus Neeson)